Filling Vacancies in the Constitutional Convention.

THE STANDING COMMITTEES TO LAY OUT THE WORK OF THE CONVENTION.

Legislative Reform the Most Important Question.

THE QUESTION OF THE SOVEREIGNTY OF THE CONVENTION.

The Legislative Restrictions Treated as a Nullity.

[Special Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

HARRISBURG, Nov. 14, 1872.

FILLING VACANCIES—CUMULATIVE VOTE.

An error occurred in the dispatches of yesterday, stating Mr. Buckalew had been designated to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Samuel L. Rhone, of Luzerne county, as delegate from the XIII district. Caleb E. Wright, of Wilkesbarre, a Democratic lawyer of that city, was the gentleman on whom the honor fell. This afternoon the resignation of Col. John G. Freese, of Columbia county, was presented, and the Democratic delegates-at-large authorized to fill the vacancy. This is the place intended for Mr. Buckalew, and he will take his seat in the Convention to-morrow.

It is understood Mr. Buckalew desires to enter the Convention as the champion of the cumulative principle in the election of county and municipal officers wherever it can be applied, and also in the choice of members of the Legislature. He carried through the Legislature a special law applying the principle to the election of local officers in Bloomsburg, in his own county, some years ago. This was the first experiment made on the cumulative plan in Pennsylvania, although the principle of minority representation has long been recognized in the choice of election officers. It is very evident the idea of minority representation has taken a deep hold on a large body of the Convention, irrespective of party associations. No particular method of securing that result has yet been broached, but the recent election of the popular branch of the Illinois Legislature is regarded as demonstrating the entire feasibility of the system of securing minorities a fair voice in the Government, and at the same time maintaining the dominance of the party having the largest number of votes. The prospective presence of Mr. Buckalew in the Convention is generally regarded with favor.

MAPPING OUT COMMITTEES.

The President did not announce the Committee of fifteen to report Rules and Standing Committees for the Convention until after its adjournment yesterday. The Committee consists of Messrs. Newlin (the youngest member of the Convention, and as yet on the sunny side of thirty), Darlington, Armstrong, Guthrie, Gowen, Woodward, Hopkins, S. A. Purviance, Mann, Harry White, Kaine, Clark, Judge Black, Turrel and Lawrence. This committee reported this morning the number of members in each committee deemed necessary to prepare work for the Convention. The report was unanimous except in one particular: the six gentlemen last named differed from their colleagues in the power of the Convention to ignore the law of the last Legislature prohibiting the Convention from changing or altering the Bill of Rights. The majority of the Committee held the law of no effect, while the minority regarded it as binding on the delegates. As will be seen the latter had a very small following. The Committee recommended the following Standing Committees for the Convention:

A committee on nine upon Legislature.
Eleven on legislation.
Nine on executive department, its powers and duties.
Fifteen on judiciary, including aldermen and justices of the peace.
Eleven on suffrage, electors and representation.
Five on impeachment and removal from office.
Nine on commission of offices, oath of office and incompatibility of office.
Nine on education.
Nine on cities and city charters.
Nine on counties, townships and boroughs.
Five on militia.
Nine on public municipal debts and sinking funds.
Seven on State institutions and buildings.
Seven on religious and charitable corporations and societies.
Eleven on railroads and foreign corporations.
Nine on private corporations.
Nine on declaration of rights.
Five on future amendments.
Nine on Constitutional sanction.
Nine on schedule.
Five on revision and adjustment.
Five on amounts and expenditures of the convention.
Seven on printing and binding of the convention.

It will be seen that these committees cover all the provisions likely to be incorporated in the Constitution; but there are three or four of them that may be termed the pivotal committees of the Convention, on which the reforms most anxiously looked for by the people of the State will fall. It was a very general desire of the delegates that these important committees should be largely constituted so as to give all sections and opinions a fair representation, and permit the presence on each of them of some of the delegates more conspicuous than their colleagues by reason of long experience in the public service, and at the same time give the lesser lights a chance.

The Committee on Legislation, probably the most important on the list, for to it will be confided the definition of the powers of the Legislature, gave rise to some debate, and was increased from eleven to fifteen, by a vote of yeas 58, nays 39. This is a good sign, for in the discussion that took place the question of legislative reform was brought forward, and urged as a reason why the committee should be enlarged. Mr. D. N. White, of Allegheny, stated with emphasis he did not believe the Convention would have been sanctioned by the people were it not for their conviction of the necessity of legislative reform,—that it was the great question of the day, and the all-important one for the Convention to meet in accord with the spirit of the people.

The Committee on Suffrage, Elections and Representation was increased from eleven to fifteen. The question of minority representation will go to this committee. A motion was made for a separate committee on proportionate representation, but it was wisely decided best to confide the whole subject to a single committee.

When the Committee on Counties, Townships and Boroughs was under consideration, Mr. Gowen, of Philadelphia, in explaining the importance of the subject, said that there was more stealing by county officers than all the rest of the stealing in the State put together. He illustrated the plan of procedure, and said the knife must be put to the whole system.

The Committee "on Railroads and Foreign Corporations" was changed to a "Committee on Railroads and Canals, Foreign and Domestic," and the number increased from eleven to fifteen. Much interest was manifested in this section. The feeling is unmistakable that Pennsylvania must be released from the domination of corporations. I should not wonder if the Convention would be radical on this question, although there are some very able representatives of railroad interests among the delegates.

THE CONVENTION VERSUS THE LEGISLATURE.

The appointment of a Standing Committee on the Bill of Rights, brought up the important question of the power of the Convention and the binding force of the limitations sought to be imposed on its action, in regard to the Bill of Rights and Equity Courts, by the following proviso in the fourth section of the law of the last Legislature, "calling a convention to amend the Constitution:"

And provided further, That nothing herein contained shall authorize the said Convention to change the language, or to alter in any manner the several provisions of the ninth article of the present Constitution, commonly known as the declaration of rights, but the same shall be excepted from the powers given to said Convention, and shall be and remain inviolate forever: And provided further, That the said Convention shall not create, establish or submit any proposition for the establishment of a court or courts with exclusive equity jurisdiction.

The question involved, as to whether the Convention is sovereign in planning a Constitution for submission to the people, drew out some of the strongest men in the body. Ex-Attorney General Black made two brief speeches, maintaining the validity of the legislative limitations and the duty of the Convention to observe them. All delegated powers must be accepted, he argued, and discharged according to the terms of the grant; the limitations as well as the grants must be observed. He declared the Legislature had the right to mark out the line of our power, and pointed to the Dorr rebellion in Rhode Island and the truths about two State constitutions in Kansas as results growing out of disregard of limitations of law. The Judge was supported by General White and Mr. Kaine, of Fayette.

But the other side had decidedly the best of the argument, as well as the sympathies of the Convention. Speeches were made maintaining the sovereignty of the Convention and the nullity of the legislative restrictions by Messrs. Ellis, of Schuylkill, Armstrong, of Lycoming, Darlington, of Chester, Simpson and Gowen, of Philadelphia, Smith, of Lancaster, MacVeagh, of Dauphin, McAllister, of Center and others. The oratorical and argumentative display was very fine. The points of the argument were that the Legislature had power to restrict the Convention in one particular it had in others, and thus the next Legislature, if the right was conceded, could withdraw from the Convention any question it might deem expedient: that the law containing the limitations was passed subsequent to the vote of the people of the State calling the Convention; that the only duty of the Legislature was to prescribe how the delegates should be elected and when and where they should meet. It was shown that the Constitution of 1790 was declared the fundamental law by the Convention without submission to the people, although the law calling it had provided that it must be submitted. The Supreme Court of the State had approved the right of the Convention to this exercise of sovereign power.

Of course this is the merest skeleton of the arguments. The advocates of legislative domination over the Convention were decidedly worsted. On the test question of ordering the Committee on the Bill of Rights, the vote stood for the committee 106, against 18.

Without concluding the consideration of the plan of committees, the Convention adjourned.

THE PRESIDENT OF THE CONVENTION.

The unanimous vote that Mr. Meredith received for President of the Convention was not a misplaced expression of confidence; and now that he has been tried during the difficult part of the session, pending the permanent organization, the expression is fully as cordial as it was at the outset. The selection was the best that could be made from the list of delegates. He was chosen without pledges or promises, and although he was the nominee of the Republican caucus, his name was not presented as a party candidate, and he received the vote of every delegate except his own and one absentee. Without any appearance of haste, he has a happy faculty of forwarding business. I believe this is his first practical experience in the administration of parliamentary law, yet he is thoroughly grounded in its principles, and ready and quick in their application. He keeps the business well in hand, enforces the minutiae of the rules of order with great strictness, and thus prevents any confusion whatever. No one is permitted to transgress, and starting with this policy and applying it in the first instance to the more prominent members of the Convention, he has already secured a general acquiescence in its wisdom. There is a vein of dry humor about the old gentleman at times that is quite refreshing, and enlivens business at the expense of some incautious member who is too forward with his "points." It is genial, however, and does not wound. Finally it is easy to see that Mr. Meredith is complete master of the situation; that he appreciates the essentials for a rapid dispatch of business; that he will maintain order and decorum, and administer his trust with high bred courtesy, manly dignity and the strictest impartiality.

SMALL LIST OF SUBORDINATE OFFICERS.

The action of the Convention in providing for subordinate officers and paying them salaries affords a gratifying contrast with that of the average legislature and its brigade of clerks, pasters and folders, secretaries of the closets, etc. The Convention only allows itself the number of officers necessary to transact the business, and has provided no sinecures for the sons, nephews and cousins of members. The following statement of officers with their salaries for the session is quite refreshing by contrast:

The Chief Clerk	$1,500
Two Assistants (each)	1,200
Two Transcribing Clerks	1,000
Sergeant-at-Arms	850
One Assistant	600
One Doorkeeper	600
One Assistant	500
One Postmaster	800
One Assistant and Messenger	600

a Together with one fireman, two janitors, and five pages. Supposing the session will continue four months, this will involve an outlay for these officers of $2,040, and for the clerks, sergeant at arms, etc., of but $7,650, making the expenditure altogether for clerical and other service $9,690. That, every one must admit, is a fair commencement, only this morning the door for abuse was opened just a little, to admit the presence of that State House necessity, Mr. John A. Smull, of Smull's Manual, who was elected an additional clerk by resolution. Of course no one expected the Convention could get along without Smull, or that the Constitution could have been framed without his portly presence at the clerk's desk, only he should have come in as one of the assistant clerks elected yesterday and not an additional one. The General Opinion of the Convention Programme.

A RECESS TAKEN UNTIL NEXT WEDNESDAY.

Special Dispatch to the Pittsburgh Gazette.

HARRISBURGH, November 15, 1872.

We have had a short session to-day, as I had anticipated in my report yesterday. The preliminary work of the Convention being done, the body must now await something from the Committees, before it can enter upon its real, special work.

REMOVAL TO PHILADELPHIA.

There was a goodly attendance of spectators in the lobby this morning, when the Convention was called to order,—indicating the interest taken in the proceedings. After the usual routine of opening exercises, the matter of removal to Philadelphia was called up, and a special Committee of five appointed to act in conjunction with a committee from the Philadelphia Councils in reference to the necessary accommodations for the body in that city.

BUCKALEW SEATED AT LAST.

The Democracy seem determined to get Mr. Buckalew into the Convention, and in accordance with general expectations, their object was accomplished this morning.

Mr. Gowan, of Philadelphia, from the Democratic Delegates at Large, reported in favor of Buckalew to fill the vacancy occasioned by the resignation of Mr. Freese. The gentleman named was present, and after the report had been received, was called up and took the oath of office.

The Committee on Rules presented a report which was adopted.

ADDITIONAL STANDING COMMITTEES.

The consideration of the report on Standing Committees was resumed, and after some discussion the following Committees were added to the list named yesterday:

Future Amendments—five members.
Constitutional Sanction—nine members.
Schedules—nine members.
Revision and Adjustment—five members.
Expenditures of Convention—five members.
Printing and Binding—seven members.
Industrial Interests, Rights and Claims of Labor—nine members.
Agriculture, Mining, Manufactures and Commerce—nine members.
Revenue, Taxation and Finance— nine members.

This completes the Standing Committees.

THE PARDONING POWER.

An effort was made to have a committee appointed to consider the pardoning power, but it was unsuccessful,—the motion calling for it being voted down.

PRINTING AND REPORTING AGAIN.

The question of printing and reporting was again called up. Along with this came the question as to whether the State Printer was entitled to the contract by reason of his contract with the State or whether it could be let out to other parties.

After discussion the question of reporting was referred to a Committee of fifteen. The printing question was dodged by being laid on the table.

CONVENTION TAKES A RECESS.

The Convention then adjourned at noon until next Wednesday morning at nine o'clock.

THE FUTURE PROGRAMME.

It is supposed that when they reassemble on Wednesday President Meredith will have the Committees ready and be prepared to announce them,—although the work is a heavy one and very important. It will require considerable deliberation to make satisfactory appointments, as upon them depends in a very large measure the success of the gathering.

The general opinion is that when the Committees are announced the various divisions of the Constitution will be referred to them without debate, and that the Convention will then adjourn to meet in Philadelphia in January. In the meantime the Committees will hold meetings and prepare their business so that at the close of the recess they will be enabled to present their reports, and give the Convention something tangible to work on.

The adjournment of the Convention had the effect of causing a general exodus from town this afternoon, and Harrisburg has the appearance of a city somewhat deserted. GAZETTE.

Philadelphia Postmastership.

THE PRESIDENT AND CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

James River and Kanawha Canal Improvement.

WASHINGTON, November 15, 1872.

THE PHILADELPHIA POSTMASTERSHIP.

A delegation of Pennsylvanians, headed by the Governor-elect, Senator Cameron, ex-Congressman O'Neill, and others, to the number of about thirty, had an interview to-day with the President in relation to the appointment of a postmaster for Philadelphia. They urged Geo. Trueman, a merchant of that city, for the place. The President listened attentively, but gave no definite response relative to the selection. Geo. Fairman, a clerk in the office, is also a candidate for the appointment. Under the civil service regulations it enters into a controversy.

It is said that the President is inclined to appoint the clerk, and the delegation is somewhat excited in consequence.

[Special to N. Y. Post.]

THE PRESIDENT AND CIVIL SERVICE REFORM.

Washington, November 15.—A delegation of prominent Philadelphia politicians, headed by Senator Cameron and Governor Hartranft, waited upon the President this morning, to ask the appointment of Trueman as postmaster of Philadelphia.

Mayor Stokely, in behalf of the delegation, presented the claims of Trueman for the position, saying that he had been very effective in keeping the Republican party in Philadelphia together, which resulted in giving such a magnificent victory on the 5th of November.

The President said, in reply, that he had committed himself to the policy of civil service reform, and that the Republican party in its national platform had declared in its favor, and that whenever it was possible to secure a good appointment under the civil service rules, he felt it to be a public duty to make the selection accordingly. As a rule he would endeavor to reward efficiency on the part of subordinates in positions of public trust, but when it should appear that he could secure a better appointment by going outside of the civil service, then he should not hesitate to do so. In the present case, Mr. Fairman, deputy postmaster, was highly recommended in every way as qualified for the position, and it was not denied that by his appointment the Government would secure a faithful and efficient officer. Under these circumstances, therefore, he felt he could not do otherwise than promote Mr. Fairman to the place to be made vacant by the resignation of General Bingham, but would take into consideration all that had been said in favor of Mr. Trueman.

The delegation thereupon withdrew, and will leave for home this afternoon, fully satisfied that Mr. Fairman will be appointed.

JAMES RIVER AND KANAWHA CANAL.

A delegation composed of Judge Loughridge, member of Congress elect from Iowa, Senator Lewis, of Virginia, and Representative elect J. Ambler Smith, and J. B. Sener, with other gentlemen, called upon the President to-day, in order to lay before him the subject of the completion of the James River and Kanawha Canal, for which Government aid is desired. The value of the proposed work in the interest of cheap and capacious transportation of the produce of the West to the seaboard, and in connection with it the tender by the States of Virginia and West Virginia of their interests to the Government, and after a return of the expenditure for its completion that it be made a highway, free of all tolls except those necessary to keep it in repair, was presented to the President, and will probably at an early day receive the attention of Congress.

The President expressed himself sensible of the great importance of the work in its national aspects, and after informal interchange of opinion, the delegation withdrew, much gratified with their interview.

WEATHER PROBABILITIES.

Over the entire northwest and lake region, and thence to the Ohio valley, occasional light snow, but clearing, cold weather will prevail; in the New England and Middle States, clear, cold weather and northerly to westerly winds; clear weather, frequent frosts and northwesterly winds with high barometer will prevail in Tennessee, the Gulf and South Atlantic States. Warning signals are ordered for Duluth, Milwaukee, Chicago and Grand Haven.

INDIAN VISITORS.

A delegation of Sacs and Foxes of the Upper Missouri, accompanied by Indian Agent Lightfoot and an interpreter, arrived here to-day. They came on to make final arrangements for selling their reservation, some sixteen thousand acres, located in Nebraska and Kansas, and removing thence to the new reservation in the Indian Territory.

BOSTON.

The People Becoming Confident.

BOSTON, November 15.—As the sufferers by the fire are becoming acquainted with the nature and extent of their losses, the feeling of confidence grows stronger that both the home and foreign insurance companies will in time liquidate their entire debts. Salvage is found to vary from fifteen to sixty per cent., and as schedules of saved property are being made out as rapidly as possible, and policies and proofs of losses are in some cases already sent in, the work of adjustment will be pushed forward with the utmost celerity.

STOLEN GOODS RECOVERED.

Between three and four hundred thousand dollars' worth of stolen goods have been recovered, and a lot of unclaimed property awaits identification at City Hall.

UNSAFE SAFES.

The safe of Messrs. J. W. Beebe & Co., in Winthrop Square, was opened, but nothing remained of the contents except a few charred books and papers.

Messrs. Horswell, Kingsley & French recovered from their safe a lot of silverware in a damaged condition, and portions of the family jewelry partially wrecked. The safe contained a small portion of gold coin, which was melted.

The property in a large portion of the safes recovered was ruined.

Several steamers are still playing upon the ruins.

REBUILDING.

The site of Old Fort Hill is a scene of active building operations, half a dozen wooden structures being already finished and in process of erection.

PUTTING THINGS IN ORDER.

The Advertiser of to-day says large gangs of workmen have cleared out the main thoroughfares, torn down many walls, and cleared up some great heaps of granite, bricks and rubbish. Devonshire street is now open to Winthrop Square on the north end, and about half through from Summer street to the same point. High street is opened through almost its entire length, and Summer street throughout. Congress street is opened nearly to Perkins on the north, and nearly to Purchase on the south end, and Purchase street is partially cleared. But there is yet a vast deal to be done, as there are many heaps and towers of ruins, picturesque and grim. Morton place and Hawley street are yet choked with brick and stone; so also Arch and Otis streets. In Congress street are huge masses of broken granite and bricks, in some places four to five feet deep, and blackened bales of wool and twisted iron and broken pillars. The tower of old Trinity, a grand old ruin, still stands, with the rear gable and part of the side walls. The front of the store of Macullar, Williams & Parker, on Washington street is still up.

The guarded district grows smaller and smaller each day. Yesterday the line was considerably contracted, and to-morrow a large portion of the territory on Tuesday closed to the public will be open.

REMODELING THE STREETS.

The New York Herald says: The matter of laying out the burnt district upon a new plan is receiving the personal attention of a large number of citizens and city officials. There are two distinct propositions, one of which will without doubt be eventually adopted. The first may be called the popular one, and it is this: The passage of a law at a special session of the Legislature authorizing the city to take possession of the whole territory, to obliterate all present streets and property lines so far as necessary, and lay out districts upon an entirely new plan, with a system of wide and straight streets, and sell the land bordering upon them to those who wish to occupy it with buildings for business purposes. The advantages of this are readily seen, but if it is done, the whole present system of sewerage and paving must be overthrown, and gas and water pipes, sidewalks, hydrants and cellar walls, a majority of which are yet intact and valuable, must be torn up and rendered almost worthless. The cost would of course be enormous.

The second plan is the conservative one. This contemplates the widening, straightening and extending of streets, perhaps the discontinuance of small portions of some streets and the general improvement of the present lines. This plan, though not effecting so radical and thorough an improvement as the first, necessitates far less of trouble in its accomplishment.

CAIRO.

Cutting Affray on a Steamer.

CAIRO, November 15.—Clem Nolte, second clerk of the steamer City of Chester, was stabbed yesterday morning by a desperado named Robert Pittis. Pittis was a deck passenger, and had refused to pay his fare; he had drawn a knife on Nolte and others during the night. In the morning the desperado pursued the clerk up stairs to the wash-room, with a drawn knife, when Nolte turned on him, drew his revolver and fired. Unfortunately his aim was not true, and the shot failed to hit the ruffian, who then rushed in and inflicted three stabs, in quick succession, upon the person of Nolte, and would undoubtedly have killed him had it not been for the interference of a passenger. The wounds are very painful, but not dangerous. Pittis is confined on the boat, and will be taken to St. Louis.

ALARMS OF FIRE.

Important Instructions to the Police.

Owing to the prevalence of the horse disease, and the necessity of volunteer assistance, it has been decided to give people additional means of hearing of fires and their location at night. The Mayor, after consultation with the Fire Marshal, Chief Engineer of the fire department and a number of citizens, decided yesterday to issue the following order to the police:

"You are hereby instructed to obey the following orders until further notice:

1. On hearing an alarm of fire at night you are to count the numbers sounded on the alarm bell.

2. At the end of the first alarm strike your maces four times and cry "fire," and also the number of the box from which the alarm has been sounded.

3. Next proceed half way along the block upon which you may be and repeat the alarms as instructed in section second."

By the above arrangements business men will be enabled to learn at once the exact location of fires and whether their places are in danger.

SPRING GARDEN PLANK ROAD COMPANY.

Bill in Equity Filed in the Court of Common Pleas.

A bill in equity was filed in the Court of Common Pleas yesterday by Conrad Hahn vs. Gottlieb Wettach, Adam Wiese and August Freund. The bill alleges that The Spring Garden Plank Road Company was chartered in 1860 with power to construct a plank road a mile and a half in length through Reserve township; that plaintiff became a stockholder in said company, and defendents were elected officers; that the orator is credibly informed that when the company ceased to operate by being transferred to the City of Allegheny, there was a balance of $1,600 in the treasury; that he has repeatedly called upon defendants for an account, but they refuse to render one. A decree of Court is therefore asked to pay over to the parties entitled to the money if any to be found in their hands.

The case will come up for argument hereafter.

A DISPATCH from London says Charles Sumner left Liverpool on Thursday for the United States, on the steamer Baltic.

THE official vote of every county in the State has been received at Harrisburgh, which shows that the vote at the Presidential election was as follows: Grant, 349,685; Greeley, 211,961. Grant's majority is 137,-738, which is 102,101 more than that given to Hartranft.

IT was expected that Michigan, with her 60,000 majority for Grant, would have the third place in the Republican column, but New York and Illinois are pressing her close. The former of these States was one that the New York Tribune put down as sure for Greeley, and the latter the same wise newspaper considered doubtful.

THE population of Boston is 250,000. It is the richest city in the Union compared with its population, and second only to New York in its aggregate valuation. The latest statistics we have are those of 1869. Its valuation of real estate was then $232,-051,900, and of personal estate $317,459,-700; total, $549,511,600. The valuation of New York at the same time was: Real estate $684,183,918, and of personal estate $281,142,696; total, $965,326,614. The valuation of Philadelphia the same year was: Real estate $470,851,800; personal estate $8,188,873; total, $479,040,673.

BOSTON'S ENERGY.

Now that the full weight of the calamity is viewed, Boston seems inclined to take a cheerful view of her situation, and is bravely preparing to rebuild. Among the other considerations which have weight, it is thought that space can be economized by straightening and widening streets, and having fewer of them. About one-half of the burned space is streets,—hence it is argued that there were too many. The crooked, narrow streets of the business part of the city, aided the rapid spread of the fire, and prevented the firemen from employing effective measures for staying the spread of the devouring element. Wider and better streets are to be the rule. This resolution is in the interest of economy as well as safety.

Mansard roofs seem also to be decidedly condemned. Propositions are out for making them fire proof, but the principal interest is in the direction of removing them altogether. Boston, when rebuilt, may be less ornamental than before, but it is confidently believed that it will be safer against fire. These are the principal considerations agitated. The prevailing spirit is that of courage and energy. While contributions are gratefully received and will be wisely applied, yet Boston does not reach forth a beggar's hand, but proposes to regain her misfortunes by her own inherent energy. This is noble, and yet we trust it will receive the aid that all nobility of spirit is entitled to. Her capitalists have even refused to ask for any reissue of currency for their benefit. There is in this, however, real philosophy. In the Boston and Chicago fires, some $300,000,000 of the capital of the country has been swept out of existence. As a result, a proportionate amount of business is, for a time, withdrawn, and hence, a relatively less amount of currency needed. This amounts to very little in the aggregate, yet the real influence of the calamities is rather in the direction of lessening the volume of currency. Of course, we do not lay this down as a general principle, but simply as a special case, of no great moment to the aggregate currency circulation of the country.

THE HORSE EPIDEMIC.

We begin once more to have horses on our streets, and business is in a more easy motion. The troubles through which we have passed, however, should teach us several important lessons. Aside from those relating to the importance of horses, and the propriety of right usage toward them, we learn how essential it is that provision should be made for other means of draught in many directions. For example, had our street railways been supplied with dummy engines, and had they been adapted to such engines, we should have experienced much less difficulty in travel than we have. Our city is rather fortunate in that we have steam railroads which are convenient for the general need. But in addition to these a few dummy engines would have enabled the people to reach their work, or places of business without difficulty. The Oakland Company were possessed of a very excellent engine but the tracks were not found adapted to it and it was sold to another company.

Another precautionary matter is that of treatment of the diseased animals. Rest and care are said to be essential to recovery. The number already on our streets points to a probable violation of this rule, and dangerous results may be anticipated. In New York and Rochester, the numerous deaths that have occurred are attributed to the early use of the horses—their strength being over-taxed by use before they were able to endure it. The early use of those in our city promises, we fear, the same result. It is claimed by experts, that the disease is from six to nine days reaching its height, and that some additional time is required for the animals to regain their strength. The variable weather of the past week, also, has contributed to give violence to the disease, thus rendering it increasingly probable that it will be dangerous to bring the animals out too early. These are practical suggestions, that need not so much enlargement as we see the subject has received. We doubt if the epizootic is one of the plagues that were intended to mark the speedy destruction of the world.

MEXICAN RAILROADS.

The death of President Juarez, and the election of Lerdo de Tejada as President of Mexico, have served to open to the world a much clearer idea of the condition of that Republic than has been known for many years. The impression existed that Mexico was a semi-barbarous country, in which pronunciamentos and revolutions were chronic, that all in power were corrupt, her credit was gone, and there seemed to be no basis in the national character, or in the government for her rehabilitation. With the death of Juarez it became known that he was really a pure man and a patriot. The election of Tejada quieted revolution, and at last there seems to be a basis of confidence, and works of internal improvement have, consequently, been projected. Of these her railway system is regarded as the most important.

Two plans have been laid before the Government. One is that of General Rosecrans, for a railroad from the capital to the Pacific ocean. The Mexican government is asked to aid it with a credit of ten thousand dollars for every kilometre of the main track, and five hundred for every kilometre of the branches. Government bonds to bear six per cent. interest are to be issued for that purpose. The line of railway from Mexico to Vera Cruz is to be finished before the 31st of December, 1876, and during the years of 1873 and the two following, two hundred kilometres of branch railways are to be made, leading to various cities named in the scheme, and after the completion of the main track two hundred kilometres of these branches are to be constructed yearly till they are all finished. The company undertaking the work is to have liberty to extend any one of its lines to the northern frontier, but without aid from the government.

The other plan was submitted by Mr. Plumb, who proposes to build a broad gauge railway, that of General Rosecrans being a narrow gauge. Its main line to the Pacific is intended to tap important cities in the western part of the Republic, and the northern line will touch such important towns as Saltillo and Monterey. The two lines are to be completed in ten years, and if sooner, Mr. Plumb asks $100,000 for every year saved. The extent of those lines is fixed by Mr. Plumb at 2,275 kilometers. The aid asked from the Mexican government is $9,500 for each kilometre; the payment of which is to begin after the first eighty kilometres are constructed, by issuing, after the completion of each section of twenty kilometres, certificates on the custom houses, which bear no interest, and to the redemption of which eight per cent. of the duties received is to be applied. The premiums above mentioned are to be paid in the same way. Various privileges in the use of railways are allowed, and cheap transportation for persons coming to settle in Mexico. Security is to be given for the performance of the undertaking in the sum of $400,000, and the Minister of the Department of the Interior is to judge whether it has been properly performed.

As between the two plans, we have not, of course, the means of judging which is preferable. The proposed lines may diverge so widely as that both may be practicable. On the general proposition that Mexico shall be intersected with railways, there cannot be a moment's doubt as to the advisability of such a movement. The country needs it for purposes of development. The Government is interested in that its security will thus be very greatly promoted. There will, aside from these, be a thousand advantages to the people of that country. A railroad would tend to awaken them from their sluggishness and indolence; would promote intercommunication; would inspire a true national pride, in place of the senseless local pride now so prevalent; would serve to fuse and nationalize the whole people. In developing agriculture, promoting the growth of cities, and ridding Mexico of her sluggishness, these railways will be life to her. The Government can well afford to give all the aid it can possibly command to these enterprises.

The fact that President Tejada does manifest interest and is likely to consummate arrangements for the building of these roads, shows that he fully appreciates the situation. Mexico is one vast mine of undeveloped wealth. She has lain fallow through the ages,—her soil rich, her mountains full of silver, her climate delightful, and resources varied and ample. The cause of indolence came to her along with Spanish rule. The ancient possessors of the soil were industrious, energetic and wealthy. But centuries of misrule have enervated the people, and weakened the national character. It is to our interest that she should be resuscitated and redeemed; but the great difficulty has always been, she has been too indolent to do for herself, and too proud to let others do for her. Even if aid were courted it is not the best way of rejuvenating a people. Hence we look upon the reception given these railway projects as a hopeful sign of the times for Mexico.

A CHINESE editor in San Francisco is named Sum Punk. His relatives, though not of the aristocracy, can justly call themselves Sum Punk-kins.

IT may not be known to all our readers that "Mario" is merely the stage name of the famous tenor singer who bears it. His real name is Giuseppe, Marquis of Candia.

W. S. BLANCHARD is the name of the gentleman who made up the excellent dispatches sent out from Boston, by the Associated Press, on the night of the great fire.

HENRY L. DAWES, of Massachusetts will be the father of the next House of Representatives, having been elected for the ninth time from the Berkshire district. The Berkshire people like to honor a faithful public servant.

IT would make some of our fine ladies stare to see Lady Dufferin promenading the streets to-day, doing her shopping. She dresses plainly and sensibly, wears thick-soled boots, and does not fear a walk from one end of the city to the other, or face the muddiest crossing on Sparks street. —Ottawa (Can.) Citizen.

A COUNTRYMAN and his wife arose and left the theatre, the other night, just as Lucca was commencing the disrobing scene, thinking that the free manner in which she went at it portended things unmeet for modest eyes to look upon. In point of fact, Lucca is one of the modestest, correctest women on the stage.

QUEEN VICTORIA's laundry at Richmond is to be fully supplied with water, notwithstanding the recent refusal of the Vestry to allow Her Majesty's solicitor permission to have the requisite pipes laid across certain streets. The spirit of peace and compromise has brought this threatened trouble to a happy termination.

"COME in, there's a fire in the parlor," were the whispered words we heard while passing a house on one of our principal streets last evening. It is such little courtesies as these that increase the coal dealers' profits, and tend to make the baker sweat over six-story wedding cakes before the winter is over.—Titusville Press.

ANY one who supposes that the "Old Probabilities" is a grizzly old wizard, whose eyes are bleared by the lightnings and shoulders bent by the storms is very much mistaken. "Old Prob," alias Gen. Myer, is a fresh and vivacious youth of thirty, said to be mated with a charming wife, and has one of the most elegant private residences in Washington. Of course, the General does not regulate the weather alone, but he "bosses the job."

THERE is now living in one of the St. Bartholomew's almshouses, at Newbury, England, a Waterloo veteran, named James Staples, who has nearly attained his eighty-fourth year. He was engaged in the Peninsula war, and was present at the defeat of Marshal Soult, at Orthes, on the 27th of February, 1814, and also at Toulouse, on the 10th of August following. At Waterloo he fought with the Seventh Hussars; the cavalry brigade being commanded by the Marquis of Anglesea.

IT was Falstaff who admitted of having stolen a man's deer, but pleaded in mitigation that he had not kissed the keeper's daughter. This had been considerably exceeded by Mr. M. H. Fitzgibbon, of St. Louis, who, on being charged with having received, for work done on the new jail, "15,894,06, more than it was reasonably worth," defended himself by the allegation that the expenses of the commission of investigation will exceed $10,000. The expense of convicting a culprit has never yet been pleaded in mitigation by him.

IN Dr. Carl Broth's "Small-pox: the Predisposing Conditions and their Prevention," just out in Boston, the theory is advanced that this dreadful disease is provoked by too much albumen and too little salt in the blood. The author asserts that wherever from any cause salt has become scarce we find small-pox a regular visitant. If the people would drink less tea, coffee, and alcohol, eat less sugar, and more salted food, they would get the proper balance in the blood, and could not take the small-pox or any contagious disease. So says Dr. Broth.

MRS. DRAKE, a widow lady of Muhlenburg county, Kentucky, has in her possession an apple which has been in existence since the beginning of the Revolutionary war. The Greenville Gazette gives this account of it: "The soldier, Mr. Drake, received the apple from his betrothed just as he departed for the army of Washington; kept it during the whole war; returned after the surrender of Yorktown, and married the fair donor. The apple is sacredly preserved in the family. It is dry and shriveled, nothing remaining but the woody fiber. The heir-loom is highly prized by every member of the family.

A SON of Isaac Henderson, of Cuba, now aged about 15 years, has been suffering apparently from consumption for about three years, and has been in a very bad condition, no one hoping for his recovery. About eight days ago in a fit of coughing he threw up a cocklebur that had been in his lungs three years. He remembers the incident of getting it down his throat, and once, during his illness, mentioned the fact that he believed he had the bur in his lungs, but it was regarded as impossible. After expelling the bur last week his voice was so radically changed as to be unrecognizable. He is now expected to recover.

GEORGE GORDON MEADE.

Ring low, ye bells, and mournful toll
A requiem to a noble soul.
Muffle the drum, and slow the pace,
When honor nears its resting place.
Old Earth in Autumn splendors drest
Receives a hero to her breast.

When shuddered Northern soil to bear
The traitorous columns gathered there;
When groaned a nation's soul to see
Disordered fragments facing Lee;
When clerk and merchant, hand in hand,
Had joined in many a valiant band;
And wealthy scions, sons of toil,
Unite to guard their native soil;
When Freedom gasped in horrid fear
O[illegible] she won so dear;
W[illegible] raves rave,
And wildly rush but to the grave.
In Freedom's, Honor's, Union's need
Sprang full equipped the gallant Meade.

The wavering squadrons now are strong,
The mob-like mass an ordered throng.
Distrust gives place to stern resolve;
The clouds of Dread, Hope's beams dissolve.
The guard, no more by doubt oppressed,
Sink confident to peaceful rest,
And on the morn, with fiercer life,
Awake all anxious for the strife.
Who fears to follow such a lead!
Who dreads the strife behind a Meade?

Three days of fearful carnage glide,
Three days of work; then one of pride.
As dawns the Fourth of that July,
The Union's anniversary.
The nation, with a thrilling cord,
Applauds the bearer of her sword;
And happy Freedom, glowing smiles
On noble MEADE and his brave files.

A mourning nation bows in grief,
That such a life should be so brief.
In gloom the half-raised banners wave,
And thousands tend thee to the grave.
The army swells the nation's grief,
At losing thee their long-loved chief;
And Freedom weeps to see him dead
Who oft her victor armies led.

Disease, still mindful of thy feats,
In funeral silence clothes the streets.
When Death commands the Fates to part
The cords that bind thy soul and heart,
The Fates refuse to do the deed,
And meddling Fortune has decreed,
The sorrowing Fates to reconcile,
A city for thy funeral pile.

GENERAL NEWS.

PARTIES boring for coal on the farm of Judge L. Salisbury, on the line of the St. Louis, Kansas City and Northern Railway, in Chariton county, Mo., recently struck a bank of cannel coal twelve feet thick, at a depth of 180 feet.

THE Cleveland, Mount Vernon and Delaware road is now running regular trains through to Mount Vernon, Ohio. The same company is pushing foward a branch from Oxford, in Holmes county, to Dresden, making a new route to Cincinnati via Zanesville.

THE New York historical society has at present in its keeping a likeness from life of the celebrated Davy Crockett, in water color, bearing underneath the autograph of Crockett, in the well-known couplet:—
"I leave this rule for others when I'm dead,
Be always sure you're right, then go ahead."

THE great suffering to which the inhabitants of Italy along the banks of the Po have been subjected from its unprecedented inundations have not been unnoticed in London. Subscriptions for the relief of these unfortunate people have been opened there, and a comparatively large sum of money has already been received.

COLORADO expects next season to have in operation a cheese factory on an extensive scale at the central point of the Monument valley, about sixty miles from Denver. The News says the facilities are unequaled, cold spring water being abundant and available, building materials cheap, and the milk from 1,000 to 1,200 cows already promised.

WHEN an animal is killed or hurt by the cars on the Kansas-Pacific, the section boss fills out a blank form describing the locality of the accident, &c. One of the questions in the form is, "What disposition was made of the animal?" The answer returned to this query in the case of a Texas steer run over the other day was, "Disposition mild and gentle."

AN English paper says that a new religious sect has made its appearance in London, which the ungodly style the "Howling Repentants." They howl at all convenient periods during the day, and at two periods during the night. Their services are conducted in the open air, as they have, as yet, no recognized place of worship. The sectarians of this religion find the police to be the most serious obstacle to their devotions.

FROM present appearances there is to be an immense slaughter of buffalo the remainder of the present season. We learn from our Western exchanges that large bands of experienced hunters from Nebraska and Kansas have taken to the plains for the purpose of killing buffaloes for their hides. Ten years of such campaigns as these and the buffalo race will become extinct. Can the national government do nothing in the way of protection?

IN his next report, the Secretary of War will urge that the numerous disused Southern arsenals be sold. Two additional arsenals, one on the Pacific and the other on the Atlantic coast, will, with that at Rock Island, be all that the service needs. Military expenditures, tax-payers will be pleased to know, are on a descending scale, and the Secretary hopes will still more rapidly when social adjustment in the South permits the withdrawal of the sixth part of the army which still garrisons the Southern States.

As from small acorns great oaks do grow, so it is that from most trifling causes widespread calamities are oftentimes derived. One account of the Boston fire traces its origin to an overheated furnace in the basement of a building on the corner of Kingston and Summer streets. This of itself might have been insufficient to produce a conflagration, but as there happened to be an elevator way above the furnace the draught therefrom fanned the heat into a blaze, which very soon communicated to the floors above, and the rest is sad and fearful history.

A TURNPIKE war has been inaugurated at Perkiomen Bridge, Montgomery county, Pa., owing to the fact that a toll-gate and a man in it to take toll, appeared suddenly on the historic bridge, one day last week. The Perkiomen and Reading Turnpike Company, by whom this action has been taken, erected a toll house there some years ago, which the citizens of the neighborhood considered an innovation upon their vested rights, and which created a great excitement and disturbance, ended, one dark night, by the toll house being burned down. The right of the Company to erect the toll-gate is to be considered in the courts.

HONOR to the young ladies of the Portland (Me.) High School? The first class (first class in every sense) have resolved to dress plainly and to dispense with dress parade on examination day. If they indulge in jewelry, it will be to a very limited extent. Lace they entirely abandon. But we have something to tell of them even better than this. They have solemnly determined to refrain, upon all occasions and under the severest temptations, from the use of slang phrases and expressions. We shouldn't wonder if the marriageable youth of the United States kept a special eye on that remarkable school.

MR. THOMAS SULLY, an American artist of some eminence, and best known to the public for his historical painting of "Washington Crossing the Delaware," died on Tuesday last at his residence in Fifth street, Philadelphia, in his ninety-first year, his death having been hastened by the results of a heavy fall received last winter. His great work was done and his fame achieved so long ago that the present generation had almost forgotten that there was such a man living, his later paintings not being calculated to attract much interest or even attention. He was born in Horncastle, Lincolnshire, England, in June, 1782.

A ROMAN WEDDING.

The Ceremonies and the Gifts.

A few days ago Donna Anna Maria Torlonia and Don Grulio Borghese were married in Rome. The lady is daughter and heiress of Prince Torlonia, and the groom is the third son of Prince Borghese by his second wife, Donna Teresa de la Rochefoucauld. Prince Borghese's first wife was Lady Gwendoline Talbot, daughter of the late Earl of Shrewsbury, and sister of Lady Mary Talbot, who married Prince Doria Pamphilli. The bride takes her husband an immediate marriage portion of 5,375,000 francs, and the succession to one of the most colossal heritages in Europe, nine tenths of which is in landed property of rapidly rising value.

The ceremony was first civil at the Capitol, and then religious at the private chapel of the Thrlonias. The bride, who is a little under the average height, is a brunette, with an abundance of rich black hair. She responded to the Syndic's questions with a clear, bright, round "Si," which could be heard in every corner of the room, throwing up her head slightly at the same time.

Many munificent acts of charity have been performed on the occasion, and among others 50,000 francs, the united offering of the Princes Borghese and Torlonia, have been sent to the Cardinal Vicar for distribution among the poor of the Roman parishes.

Among the many valuable wedding presents is a beautiful ebony casket sent to the bride by His Holiness Pius IX. It is richly inlaid with silver on the lid. It contained a beautiful picture of the Virgin, painted on rook crystal; a fan of great value, richly carved, and a missal exquisitely bound, together with which also was a service of linen damask for six persons. Cardinal Antonelli's present was in the form of a richly-wrought cross of gold.

Most Important Notice.

We publish below the testimonial of Mr. James Irvin, one of our best known citizens, and a gentleman whose word may be confidently relied on, to the efficacy of Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup, a cheap medicine for coughs and recent lung diseases, which Dr. K. has prepared expressly to meet the thousands of cases that are heard coughing daily through our streets, every one of which could be cured in less than forty-eight hours, and at a cost of 75 cents. Who would cough through seventy-five hours at a cent an hour, when Dr. Keyser's Pectoral Syrup is as sure to cure them as night follows day.

DR. KEYSER:—You have asked my opinion about your cough medicine, and I can cheerfully say that I have used your Pectoral Syrup on one occasion during last spring. I thought at one time that I was surely going to have some serious pulmonary disease, as I coughed up large quantities of matter. I found my disease would not yield to anything else, as I had tried various remedies and several of the best doctors without benefit. After the first dose of your Pectoral, I received quite a relief, and had I not used the whole bottle until I was entirely cured.

DAILY GAZETTE.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, November 15, 1872.

The financial horizon to-day presented a much healthier outlook than it has done for many days past. There appears as if there were to be a general unlocking of capital, and the present indications are that money within the next fortnight will be in sufficient supply to meet all the legitimate demand there will be for it. The large shipment of gold this week to Europe is attracting more than ordinary attention. Two millions of gold per week going abroad is something startling to the quidnuncs who have been favoring specie payment and insisting that the premium on gold would and must come down, and that there could be no proper or real adjustment until greenbacks got to the gold standard. But startling as it is, the end of the line has not yet been reached, and those men need not be as astonished if within the next twelve months the exports of gold run up in amount to over two hundred million. The more demand there is for gold in Europe, and the higher the premium here, the greater will be the development, progress and prosperity of the United States. Young America has got his coat off and does not want to put it on again until he has earned and enforced the respect and admiration of all other nations in favor of his own country, her institutions, character, resources, laws, currency, independence and ability not only to run her machine without foreign money, but also to show that gold and silver are not at all necessary to build up republican institutions, or to rear up a model people. Business of all kinds looks better, and were it not for the horse disease, which is giving considerable trouble in the way of handling goods, would be quite active. Our exchanges generally report a more favorable appearance as regards money matters, and seem to think the loss by the Boston fire will not exceed fifty millions of dollars, and that trade and finance will not to any great extent be injured by it.

The Philadelphia Ledger of Thursday says: The money market yesterday was somewhat stringent, but entirely free from all excitement. The more importunate of borrowers had rates slightly advanced upon them, but the change was not material. It is unmistakably true, however, that the market is hardening a little, and is in favor of lenders. Money on call, Government collateral, is rated at 6½@7 per cent., and on stock collateral at 7½ to 9 per cent. Good single and double-named commercial paper ranges at from 10 to 12 per cent. The banks are doing what they can to meet the demands of their customers, and are able generally to supply their strictly business wants. A fact tending to tighten a little the money market may be seen in the movement making by the insurance companies to realize on their assets, to be ready to meet the demands of their Boston policy holders. If they wait until the demand comes the market may be so over-supplied that more will be lost in price than in loss of interest from the present to the day when required for use.

NEW YORK, November 15, 1872.

Money stringent, with the bulk of the loans at 1-16 per day, easing to 7 coin at the close of bank hours. Currency is going to Boston freely. Sterling scarce; 108⅝@108¾ for long and 110¼@110⅜ for short sight. Gold very firm and higher, opened at 113¼, sold up to 113¾, down to 113⅛, and closed at 113⅝@113¾. A large shipment is probable for to-morrow; the engagements now amount to $550,000. Loans 1@7 per cent for carrying, with 1-32 bid for use at the close. Clearings $55,000,000. It is reported that a squeeze of cash coin will be attempted to-morrow. Treasury disbursements $283,000. Governments a trifle lower, closing firm. State bonds dull and steady. Stocks were weak and unsettled, in consequence of the continued issue of railroad bonds and stock. The report that the Lake Shore Company will issue six millions of new 7 per cent. currency bonds is fully confirmed, and it is stated on good authority that additional St. Paul common stock is to be put on the market. Money lenders are becoming more uneasy in regard to this class of securities, and are exacting large margins on all kinds of railroad property. Pacific Mail fell to 85½, and the whole market closed heavy at about the lowest prices of the day.

PITTSBURGH MARKETS.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, November 15, 1872.

APPLES—The demand is rather better, but there is no change to note in prices; $1,50@2 for fair to prime, and $2,25 for choice.

APPLE BUTTER—45@50 cts per gallon.

BEANS—$2,50@3 per bushel.

BUCKWHEAT FLOUR—4¼@4½ cts.

BUTTER—There is considerable inquiry for the better grades, and with continued light receipts and a reduced supply, the market is firmer; prime to choice roll, in small packages, 25@27 cts. For the lower grades, however, the market continues dull and prices are nominally unchanged, 8 to 15 cts.

BROOM CORN—There is a fair jobbing trade, but prices are unchanged; 4 to 7 cts, as to quality.

CANDLES—Mould, 12; Stearine, 15; Star, 22.

CARBON OIL—Standard brands, 23¼@23¾ cts free on cars—small lots 1@2 cts additional.

CHEESE—Prime Goshen is still quoted, in a jobbing way, at 16¼@17, and the demand is light. Ohio Sweitzer, 15¼@16¼.

CHESTNUTS—$3,50@4 per bushel.

CIDER—Continues quiet and nominally unchanged; 4,50@6 per bbl.

COUNTRY LARD—7¼@8¼ cts. per lb.

CRANBERRIES—Sackett's and Carey's Belle Berries, $14@15 per bbl. common, $10@12.

CONCENTRATED LYE—$8 per case.

DRIED FRUIT—There is some little inquiry for Apples and we are reported sales at 4@6 cts for common to prime. Peaches continue dull; halves, 8@9 cts.

EGGS—There is a fair demand for strictly fresh, guarranteed, and we are reported sales at 30. Limed eggs are selling at a variety of prices. There is a fair supply of the latter but the former are scarce.

FEATHERS—No. 1 live geese may be quoted at 72 to 75 to the trade and 3 to 5c additional for smaller lots.

FLOUR—Trade is reported fair and would be considerably better, but for the great difficulty in making deliveries; as noted in our last report, however, prices are, especially as regards spring wheat flours, weaker, and within the past few days there has been a slight decline. Quotations may be fairly given at $7,50@7,75 for spring; $8,00@8,25 for prime to choice red winter. Rye Flour, $5,25@5,50.

GRAIN—There is but a limited business in any kind of Grain, but a good trade is confidently anticipated as soon as the horse epidemic subsides. Wheat is quiet and without quotable change; $1,60@1,65 for fair to prime red; $1,70@1,75 for amber, and $1,80@1,85 for white. The arrivals of Oats continue very light, and stocks, both in the hands of small dealers and consumers must of necessity be pretty well reduced; hence, the market if anything is a shade firmer, although there is no improvement in prices: we continue to quote at 38 to 41 for mixed to white. Shelled Corn is still quoted at 56 to 58 cts; new Ear 48 to 50. Rye, 78 to 80. Barley, 80 to 85 for fair to good, and 90 to 95 for prime to choice.

GROCERIES—This branch of trade is considerably crippled for want of transportation to deliver goods; and hence, no material improvement can reasonably be expected for the present. Eastern advices continue to report Sugars firm and Coffees, especially the lower grades, weaker.

SUGARS—Granulated, 13⅜; Crushed, 13⅜c Powdered, 13⅜; A Coffee, 13; B, 12⅜; Ex. C 12⅜; C., 12⅜; Chespeake Ex. C., 12⅜; Molasses Sugars, 8¼@10; Porto Rico, 10⅜@11; Demarara, 11¼@11⅜.

COFFEE—Choice Rio 23; Prime 22; Good 21; Fair 20; Java 25 to 26; Mocha 32. Roasted in lb. packages 25; loose 24½.

RICE—Carolina, 8¼@9; Rangoon, 7@7⅜; Patna 8.

SPICES—Grain Pepper, 23; Allspice, 18; Cassia, 40; Clover, 20; Nutmegs, $1,25.

HAY—Is in good demand, and the market is firmer, though prices are not quotably higher. Baled is still being sold, on wharf and track, at $25@30. There is but little hay coming in from the adjoining country, and to this may be attributed the firmness above noted.

HONEY—Sales 25@30 cts per lb.

LARD OIL—No. 1 winter strained 78@80 cts, and scarce.

ONIONS—Sales, in small lots, at $2,50@3,25 per bbl, as to quality.

POULTRY—Live chickens, 50@60 cents per pair; dressed, 14@15 cts. per lb.

POTATOES—Sales of prime Peach Blows, in small lots, at 70@75 cents per bushel. Sweets, 3,50@4 per bbl.

PROVISIONS—Plain Shoulders, 7½; Sugar cured Shoulders, 10c; Breakfast Bacon, 14c; Rib Sides, 11½; Short Rib Sides, 12; Clear Sides, 12½; Sugar Cured Hams, 17½c; Dried Beef, 18c. Lard, in tierces, 9½c; half bbls, 10½c; pails, 11c. Mess Pork, $16,00; Beef Tongues, 7,50 per dozen.

RAGS—Quoted at 3½@3¾ cts.

SEEDS—There is a steady demand for Flax Seed at $1,95@2 per bushel.

TALLOW—Unchanged at 8 to 8¼.

WHISKY—Highwines firmer and higher; we now quote at 93@95 cts per gallon.

PETROLEUM MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, November 15, 1872.

Crude continues irregular; the agency price remains unchanged at Parker, $4,55, but there were sales made by outsiders at $4,25; we had a sale of 6,000 bbls reported, in tank here, at 10⅜ cts per gallon. Refined quoted at 27 delivered in Philadelphia, and 23⅛ on cars here; there is very little inquiry from the west or south, and refiners are now relying almost wholly on the eastern market—as a general thing they prefer trading with the east, for which there are various reasons.

PITTSBURGH IRON MARKET.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
FRIDAY, November 15, 1872.

The pig iron trade has been very quiet this week, and the market is generally reported in a very unsatisfactory condition. The demand continues very light restricted entirely to supplying immediate wants, and the horse epizootic renders hauling, a very important element in this branch of business, difficult to obtain, besides being very expensive. Prices, as compared with last week, are lower, and the tendency still seems to be downward.

Finished irons and nails are also reported dull but the card remains unchanged.

Following sales of pig iron were reported.

RIVER NEWS.

The river was about stationary, with five feet five inches in the channel. Weather blustery and very cold—thermometer down below freezing point all day.

The Granite State from Portsmouth, and Carrie Brooks from Wheeling arrived and departed.

The Juniata, from Cincinnati, was due last evening, and will no doubt be found in port this morning. The wharf is lined with tow-boats almost from one end to the other, and packet boats are complaining that they have no room.

The Messenger is filling up steadily for St. Louis, and will soon be ready to take her departure. She is a passenger as well as a freight boat and consequently is well adapted for the trade.

Capt. Martin Coulson, of the champion mountain steamer, Far West, arrived here on Thursday. His boat is laid up at St. Louis, where she will undergo repairs.

Capt. W. S. Evans, of the boat store firm of Evans, Dallas & Gilmore, arrived at St. Louis all right the other day.

Com. W. J. Kountz returned from a brief tour east on Thursday. The chief object of his visit east was to investigate the horse disease, especially the mode of treatment adopted there. The Commodore, being President of the Allegheny Street Railway Company, is deeply interested in the matter.

Business continues very dull at the landing; there were fewer teams out than on Thursday, which was owing, we presume, to the cold weather and the enforcement of the Mayor's order. Boats are bringing up fair trips, but they are getting little or nothing out.

—Old Captain Jim Crooks says that lower Red river is not as low as in 1855. At that time he commanded a fleet of eight flat-boats, loaded with 1,434 bales of cotton. These boats drew from sixteen to eighteen inches of water, and were forty days making the trip to Alexandria. One of the lightest of the eight boats was run on the falls, where she stuck on sixteen inches of water and laid there three weeks. One dark night Row Gully got on a bender and rose about six or eight feet. The next morning the sixteen-inch flatboat was below the lower falls sunk in four feet water. Captain Crooks also says that the river is not so low as it was when he ran the steamer Rescue one summer in the Shreveport trade.

—A St. Louis telegram, under date of 13th, says: The damage to the Northwestern will amount to about $1,000. The Glencoe went to the docks to-day for repairs, and Captain Calhoon left this evening for Pittsburgh. Captain John Anawalt arrived from Montrose to day, having laid up the Davenport at that place. Navigation above Keokuk is suspended. The Esperanza is getting a few sacks of grain, and taking 400 tons of ore for Pittsburgh. She leaves for the iron pile this evening.

—The St. Louis Democrat is authority for the following: It is time to stop the circulation of that absurd paragraph about Capt. Wm. J. Kountz having paid out $30,000 trying to learn how to run a newspaper. He owned a newspaper, sold it for a good price, and made money on the whole transaction.

—The Cincinnati Commercial, under date of of Thursday, say: The Belle Vernon arrived from Lawrenceberg with 730 bales of hay, and received enough hay and straw here to make her cargo 1,200 bales in addition to other freight She left for Pittsburgh last night, with Captain Ben. Goodwin and Wm. Devers at the wheel.

—The Collier, on her way from Pittsburgh to Louisville, with a tow of coal, broke her shaft at North Bend, and sent it too Cincinnati to be repaired. On her way down, she sank two coal-boats above Cincinnati.

—V. M. Purdy & Co., of New Orleans, have libeled the Ouachita Belle. United States Marshal Packard wants to know you know, "Why should she not be condemned and sold, agreeably to the prayers of libelants."

—The Iron Mountain came through the canal on Wednesday and passed up for Pittsburgh with a full tow of iron ore.

—The steamer Hesper, from Shreveport, for New Orleans, sunk on the 7th inst., sixty miles above Alexandria. She had a cargo of 145 bales.

—Capt. Stockdale is at St. Louis superintending repairs on the Glencoe.

—The Brill descended the falls on Wednesday, after discharging 100 tons at Louisville.

HOME NEWS.

Insurance.

Parties looking around for sound and old established Insurance Companies will find the statement of the "London Assurance Co." and "The Insurance Co. of the State of Pennsylvania" on the first page of to-day's paper.

Seventh Ward Republicans.

The Republican voters of the Seventh ward, Pittsburgh, as will be seen by notice elsewhere, are requested to meet this evening in the Franklin Street School House, for the transaction of some important business in connection with political matters in the ward. It is of considerable importance that all voters be in attendance.

Extortion.

We are told that some of the street venders of coal, taking advantage of the many sick horses retired from service, are demanding as high as fifty cents per bushel from poor families for coal. There is no excuse for such extortion, and the man who can be guilty of such oppression of the poor, forgets that God is the avenger of the poor. The wrath of God, who can endure it?

Seriously Injured.

Last evening about half-past ten o'clock, Mrs. Ann McCully was engaged in removing some goods from the house of her son in the Thirty-fourth ward, (West Pittsburgh), and when in the act of crossing the Pan Handle railroad was struck by a locomotive. She was rendered insensible and very seriously injured. She was removed to her home and medical assistance summoned. The extent of her injuries is not positively known, but it is thought they will not prove fatal.

Retrenchment and Reform.

The Committee on Retrenchment and Reform held a meeting the office of the Clerk of Councils yesterday afternoon, and examined several witnesses with regard to the claim of W. W. Young, formerly a contractor for grading and re-paving Forty-fourth street. The committee declined to admit reporters, or permit the testimony to be published until the investigation is concluded. After the examination of several witnesses they adjourned until two o'clock Monday.

Cheap Gas.

There is some talk of utilizing some of the gas produced at the big well in the hollow back of Fairview. The owners of the well, Lambing Bros., will probably lay pipes and conduct it to this place and Petrolia city for illuminating purposes and to supply wells in the neighborhood with fuel. This done it will be worth as much to the owners as a fifty-barrel well. Enough gas is escaping from the well at the present time to supply the city of Pittsburgh.—Fairview (Butler County) Reporter.

Sudden Death—The Coroner Notified.

About half-past ten o'clock, last evening, a well known colored barber, named George Washington Galloway, fell down in front of Moreland & Mitchell's livery stables, East Liberty. Some persons who saw him fall rushed to his assistance, and took him into a tin shop near by, where he died in a few moments. It is supposed that he died of the heart disease. The body was taken to his home, corner of Arthur street and Centre avenue, and the Coroner notified.

Preliminary Injunction Against a Saloon.

Hon. Thomas Mellon yesterday filed a bill in equity in the Court of Common Pleas against Robert Young and George Pitfield. Plaintiff alleged that on the 28th of December, 1871, he leased to defendants a store room on Smithfield street for five years on condition that it should be used as a dry goods store, that they are now engaged in converting it from a dry goods store into a liquor store and drinking saloon. For this reason a preliminary injunction is applied for. The injunction was granted and a hearing fixed for to-day.

West Pittsburgh Council.

West Pittsburgh Council held a special meeting last evening. 'Squire Powelson's report showed nine cases arrested from the 14th to the end of the month. Fines received, $39,00, after the deductions of costs, leaving a balance of $25,45. A bill of $20 was ordered to be presented to the borough of Temperanceville for prisoners brought to the West Pittsburgh lockup. A warrant was ordered in favor of officer Jas. Craddock. Runeke & Wilson were given the contract for setting twenty-nine lamp posts through the borough. On motion for street improvements were discontinued on account of the horse disease. Adjourned.

Iron Developments.

Punxsutawney has been laboring under great excitement for some time, caused by the discovery of large mineral deposits along Mahoning creek. The Argus says: "There is great excitement amongst the people of this region, caused by the discovery of large deposits of iron ore in the neighborhood. There are different kinds of ore, found in veins of from eighteen inches to six feet thick, of the very best quality. Every day the miners exploring the neighborhood are making new and valuable discoveries of that mineral."

There is no doubt but that the Mahoning valley is one of the richest in minerals in the State. The surface indications fully establish this. A railroad and some capital is all that is needed for its development.

An Absconding Constable.

Rumors have been quite prevalent of late that Henry Munro, late constable of Sharon, was likely to prove a defaulter for a large amount of taxes received by him while in office. A letter received last week, dated at Port Sarnia, Upper Canada, dispels all hopes that the rumors might prove untrue, and settles the fact that his bondsmen will have to pay about twenty-six hundred dollars which he had collected and squandered or absconded with. In his letter he professed to be sorry for what he had done, and said that he was about starting with a surveying expedition to the Red River region, and would not be back for two years, when he expected to have enough money to reimburse his bondsmen. He had been absent about six or eight weeks before it was definitely known that he did not intend coming back, though no one seemed to know where he was or how his accounts stood.—Sharon (Mercer County) Herald.

Much Needed City Legislation.

Will our City Councils heed the lessons taught by the recent fires at Chicago and at Boston and pass an ordinance prohibiting shingle roofs, and requiring fire walls between buildings and a rigid enforcement of some method for securing safe flues in all chimneys? For the want of these very precautions hundreds of millions of property and many lives have been sacrificed in Pittsburgh, Chicago and Boston. Let our Councils lose no time in preparing and passing a well digested ordinance on this subject and see to it that the same shall be carried into effect. There should be no roof of combustible material permitted in either of our cities. Allegheny is laying up material for a fearful day of devastation and suffering by her tolerance of wooden structures all through the city, marring its beauty and jeoparding its safety. It is too late to lock the stable when the horse is stolen; let the frightful experience of Chicago and Boston, and of Pittsburgh in 1845 bear their legitimate fruit in wise and timely legislation to prevent such disaster.

Obsequies of the Late Rev. Jeremiah Knox.

The funeral services of the much lamented Mr. Knox, whose sudden and unexpected death on Tuesday morning we mentioned on the following day, took place at 2 P. M., yesterday, in Christ M. E. Church, on Penn avenue. The spacious church was filled with mourning relatives and sympathizing friends. The services were very appropriate and solemn. A brief eulogium was pronounced by Rev. Dr. Hunter, who spoke most beautifully and impressively of the deceased, of his early religious culture by devout and devoted parents, his entry upon the ministry of the Gospel, his zeal, diligence and remarkable success in doing the Master's work, of his subsequent retirement from the itinerancy and successful pursuit of secular callings. The large assemblage of friends was deeply impressed by the truthful words and solemn earnestness of the Rev. speaker, while he portrayed the many excellencies and Christian virtues of his friends.

When the religious services were concluded the funeral cortege was formed and proceeded to the Allegheny Cemetery where the body was committed, dust to dust, ashes to ashes, until the last trumpet shall sound and the earth and sea shall give up their dead, when this mortal shall put on immortality, this corruption put on in corruption, and all be made alive again.

POISONED BY ARSENIC.

A Probably Fatal Mistake.

A sad mistake, which will probably result fatally, occurred in Temperanceville about half past twelve o'clock yesterday. It appears that a little son of Mr. Mahey, aged about eight years, found some bread and molasses lying in a cupboard, which had been placed there to poison rats. He told his mother immediately of the occurrence, and a doctor was immediately summoned, and in the meantime emetics administered. Dr. Stevenson and Boggs upon their arrival, found it was too late to use the stomach pump, and other remedies were administered. At nine o'clock last night there was little hopes of the child's recovery.

EXTENSIVE TRESPASS.

Suit About Eleven Heads of Cabbage.

Henry Swift, a Justice of the Peace, of Wilkins' township, sometime since had an extensive trespass suit about eleven heads of cabbage before him. John Kilhuller figured as prosecutor and Peter Curry as defendant. Judgment was given against defendant and he has carried up the case to the Court of Common Pleas. The following is an extract from a transcript of the Justice's docket: "plaintiff claims five dollars damages for trespass of defendant's calves upon his enclosure, and loss of eleven heads of cabbage. Judgment for plaintiff $1,10 for eleven heads of cabbage at ten cents per head; same day defendant pays one dollar and asks time for the balance. Twenty-sixth of September execution issued to Isaac Boul, returned by order of the Justice.

DEATH FROM INTOXICATION.

Coroner's Inquest Yesterday.

Coroner West yesterday afternoon held an inquest on a man who was found dead at the transfer depot of the Pennsylvania Railroad. The deceased was John W. Hays, and he was a car inspector about the depot. The evidence before the jury was to the effect that Hays had been drinking very hard Thursday. Between five and six o'clock in the morning he washed himself and then laid down on a bench in a shanty attached to the depot. He was taken to vomiting and fell off the bench, the under part of his chin striking on another bench in the descent. Dr. Asdale gave it as his opinion that he strangled to death. The Coroner's jury rendered a verdict of death from strangulation while intoxicated. Deceased's age was twenty-eight years, and he boarded at the house of Patrick Berry on Liberty street.

POLICE PARAGRAPHS.

Brief Mention of Criminalities.

THURSDAY morning Deputy Mayor Heisel, of the South Side, issued a warrant for the arrest of Mrs. Jordan, who is charged by Mrs. Margaret Gracy with larceny as bailee of a shawl and gold ring.

YESTERDAY morning Mayor Callow disposed of five common cases. E. M. Jordan, for disorderly conduct at the railroad depot, was fined twenty-five dollars. Matilda Miller was sent to the Work House for ninety days for disorderly conduct.

HENRY DORN made an information charging his cruel "parent," Peter Dorn with assault. The son alleged before Alderman Krehan, of the South Side, that his father, while intoxicated, beat and abused him in a violent manner. A warrant was issued.

BEFORE Deputy Nichols, James Kennedy alleges that when entering the Kilkenny House on Penn avenue, the other day, he was struck on the eye and knocked down by the proprietor, Michael Maher, without any provocation whatever. Warrant issued.

Cheerybie's Happy Thought.

Cheerybie had been planning it, and thinking about it for a week, and good natured as he always was, the idea with which he was surcharged seemed to infuse a livlier glow into his whole being and his jolly round face, was almost continually wreathed in smiles; and then at intervals while poring over his musty ledger in the dim counting room he would lay down the pen and gleefully rub his hands together and mutter something in an under tone; evidently Cheerybie contemplated some movement that would bring some fresh joy to some one of his friends—for his unselfish nature seldom allowed him to plan for himself.

The mystery at last was solved. It was at the close of a cold and cheerless November day; Cheerybie had been laboring over his accounts with railroad speed, and at last closed the ledger with a bang, and almost immediately disappeared. Winding his way rapidly amid the throngs on the streets he hovered a moment in front of No. 8, St. Clair street, and then stepping inside with an inquiring look remarked to the attendant: "Sent it."

"Yes, sir, all right," was the reply.

"All right," echoed Cheerybie, and then growing confidential he added, "you see I bought a machine with a high sounding name some time ago, but it won't work. It's cranky, and takes fits and starts and is a perpetual annoyance. I heard her say the other day that a "Florence" was the only reliable machine, and that she was sorry we hadn't bought one; she said it was so easy to run and never got out of order. I said nothing, but I thought it wasn't too late yet. This is her birth-day you know, and I guess she'll appreciate the gift, though it will be a surprise."

And then Cheerybie chuckled again, and was soon lost in the crowd outside,—wending his way homeward; while a curiosity seeker, examining the books of Messrs. Heckert & McKain, agents for the Florence, learned that he had secured one of the best grade of these superb family sewing machines.

Castle Shannon Lots.

The recent great auction sale of lots by the Pittsburgh and Castle Shannon Railroad Company, having been appreciated by the generous and liberal patronage of a decerning public, thus assuring beyond peradventure the permanent success of the project of establishing a flourishing village in a fertile section, with the most delightful surroundings, within a few miles of, and convenient of access to the city on the completion of their railroad, and running of regular passenger trains in December next. The company, in view of the advanced season, have resolved to defer further public sales until next spring, but will, meanwhile, in compliance with an urgent demand of numerous parties who were unable to attend the public sale, continue to sell at private sale on their liberal terms of ten per cent. down and twenty quarterly payments. Buyers will call at the general office, No. 75 Fourth avenue, or at their office, Carson street, South Pittsburgh; also at their office at Castle Shannon, George Smith, agent, who is authorized to make sales. Plans of the lots and full information can be had at all the above named places. Now is the time to buy, before passenger trains are put on the road, as after that time lots will not be offered at present prices. TTHS

Neat and fashionable in style, comfortable in fit, durable in wear, and marvellously cheap in price, are the goods which can be had at the Boston One Price Clothing Stores, 95 Smithfield street, and 178 Federal street, Allegheny.

A Mistake Corrected.

Many persons suppose, because they purchased a sewing machine, that their house is supplied with this very necessary article of furniture. In one sense this is true, but in another very erroneous. A sewing machine, if it be of an inferior kind, is of no account. What ever was more of an annoyance than a help at home—one that is hard to run or is liable to get out of order, or is not fit for work at all times, will be a constant source of vexation and a bill of expense. The best plan is to purchase a first-class machine like the American Buttonhole and Overseaming Machine, of which Mr. James Espy is the agent, No. 178 Liberty street. It will be found all right, and a constant pleasure in the house.

A Subject of General Interest.

Some folks are particularly interested in law, others in theology, others in literature, but while all may not be united upon any one of these branches, we take it that all gentlemen are interested in knowing where they may secure clothing of a proper character and at a reasonable price, and they will therefore be glad to learn that the fashionable Allegheny tailor, Mr. M. T. Heckert, No. 61 North Diamond street, Allegheny, can accommodate them with suits, which he will guarantee cannot be excelled in fashionable make up and artistic finish, in the city. Mr. Heckert is a practical man at the business and understands it thoroughly. Gentlemen will find this establishment an excellent place at which to deal.

THE North avenue M. E. congregation, Allegheny, Rev. Dr. C. A. Holmes, pastor, seems to have commenced upon a new era of prosperity. About half a dozen years ago this church was organized with an aggregate membership of fourteen on the first day. The enterprise prospered and the original number was in a short time increased to fifty or sixty persons, when the erection of a church edifice was commenced. The building when completed took rank among the best specimens of church architecture in the community, but the congregation were left with a heavy burden of debt; several times efforts were made to lift this load, which were partially successful, but they began the present Conference year with $35,000 hanging over them and something over 300 members. A few weeks ago the trustees took the matter again into consideration and finally appealed to the people for another effort. The response was prompt and eminently satisfactory—for subscriptions payable in six, twelve, eighteen and twenty-four months were received sufficient to cancel the entire amount of indebtedness, and as these subscriptions have all been put into bankable paper, the congregation may be said to have suddenly come up from under a cloud, and to have commenced auspiciously upon a new career of usefulness. The generous hearted people deserve the highest commendation for their Christian liberality—a liberality which we doubt not they will see signally rewarded by largely increased prosperity in the future.

Fine Carriages.

A peculiar feature of the moving panorama, daily seen on our streets is the fact of the increase in the number and beauty of the family carriages which may be seen in almost countless numbers, every afternoon. Our people seem to be thoroughly able to appreciate excellence, and to bestow their patronage accordingly, and hence we find that our home manufacturers, such as C. West & Co., who manufacture such vehicles, have all the trade they can accommodate. The carriages and lighter vehicles manufactured by this firm have won their way in Pittsburgh, and many of those which attract attention on our streets have been turned out from this establishment, and have brought them in so many orders that their bazaar, Nos. 75, 77 and 79 Liberty street, is constantly filled with the vehicles. We are glad to note the success of the firm—especially as it is an indication of the progress of Pittsburgh enterprise.

Does not interfere with the sales of the Weed Sewing Machine. A good stock always on hand at 116 Market street. Examine the Weed carefully before you buy.

A Lesson of the Fire.

The great calamity in Boston bears with it an important lesson to owners of property—that is the owners who propose to protect their property by insurance. It teaches that insurance is useless unless it is taken in a company which is reliable, one that transacts a safe business and is at any time ready to redeem all its risks. Such a home company is the National of Allegheny, of which Mr. James E. Stevenson is Secretary. Its business is of such a character that its assets are kept in advance of its liabilities to insurers and hence policy holders have never had any difficulty in securing their insurance taken out in it. The office of the National is above the Second National Bank, Allegheny.

The Winter.

Yesterday was the first real touch of wintry weather that we have had thus far, and it had the effect of attesting to gentlemen the necessity for a change in their head gear to suit the season. In this connection they would do well to remember that Mr. Henry Pratt, No. 107, Federal street, Allegheny, has a nice new stock of the latest fash ons in winter hats and caps, which he is offering at the very lowest prices. He has an assortment from which any taste may be suited. Call at once and get what you need. If you want to keep clear of cold in the head clothe that portion of your body accordingly. Pratt can fit and suit you in every respect, and by making your purchases there you will save money.

THE ILLUSIONS OF LIFE.

The Lecture Last Evening—The First of the Library Course—A Successful Opening.

The management of these popular entertainments—the Mercantile Library Lectures—certainly have occasion to congratulate themselves upon the success attending the first lecture of the course. The season was opened last evening by the Rev. A. A. Willetts, D. D. of Philadelphia, whose subject was Moonshine, or the Illusions of Life. Although the clouds prevented the gentle rays of pale Luna from shedding any light upon the subject, the brilliant wit of the speaker was sufficient to show up the subject in its most attractive and humorous light.

The hall last evening was filled almost to the extent of its capacity. A few moments before the speaker appeared the audience was treated to a little episode not down on the programme. The gas was all turned on, and while it escaped from two or three hundred burners, one solitary individual hurried around the room lighting it, and the audience, for nearly ten minutes, were almost suffocated by the escaped gas. We would respectfully suggest that at the present price of gas it is a great pity to waste it so recklessly.

At a few moments after eight the lecturer appeared, and in announcing the subject—"Moonshine"—he said that it was intended as a counterpart to his former lecture, entitled "Sunshine." The style of the speaker is most pleasant and entertaining. His many and very humorous anecdotes in illustration of his subject seemed always appropriate, and the way his audience laughed was sufficient to cause some anxiety for their safety. If we were inclined to criticise, however, we would suggest that, perhaps, jokes and anecdotes were too freely sprinkled through the lecture; one story seemed to remind the speaker of another, and every separate "illusion" was illustrated by a humorous incident. However, they were for the most part fresh, and his peculiar knack of telling a story caused the audience to laugh as heartily at the last one as at the first.

Commencing with children, the author spoke of the numerous but innocent and pleasing illusions of youth. The second stage of this life of illusion—young man and womanhood—was very humorously described. Of course, the principal illusion at this stage of our existence is the illusion of love—perhaps the most pleasant illusion of our existence. Although the lecture showed up the illusions of love in a most humerous light, he paid a touching tribute to the affections of the true wife, and said that he had arrived at his conclusion from twenty-five years experience. He made an eloquent appeal for the support of the sacred institution of marriage, and made a hard hit at the principles of free love. This occasioned loud applause from the audience.

The speaker thought that any remarks upon the illusions of office holders would be entirely out of place. Of course they could not be appreciated by the party in power. As to the other party—the sage of the Tribune had been thrown over the head of the Democratic mule and then kicked; and now even to punch him with a pun would be downright cruelty.

The Speaker referred to the illusions of money seekers, and to those "croakers" who were ever comparing our present situation of advancement and civilization with the "good old times," to the detriment of the former, and finally said that the greatest illusion of life is to suppose life itself an illusion. After referring to numerous other illusions, the speaker closed with an eloquent eulogy upon America and our form of goverment, and said that it was a great illusion to suppose that it could be better, and the man, who, with all these advantages made life miserable had no one to blame but himself. The lecture occupied about an hour, and was listened to with the closest attention. When the audience reached the door they found a heavy snow storm no illusion, but the genuine article; the audience took it good naturedly, however, and had it been a heavy rain instead of a little innocent snow the effect would doubtless have been the same.

ANOTHER CHAPTER.

The Stolen Object Glass—Hearing in the Case of William Shaw—His Statement—Where the Glass was Hid and How it was Recovered—Another Hearing to be Had.

It seems that the information against William Shaw, made by Chief of Police Clark, of Allegheny, charging him with receiving the stolen object glass of the Observatory, was not withdrawn, as has been erroneously announced. It will be remembered that Chief Clark caused the arrest of Shaw on the charge of larceny of certain household goods, and afterwards preferred a charge against him of receiving stolen goods. On this charge Shaw was released on giving bail in fifteen hundred dollars, and last evening was fixed as the time of the hearing. The case was brought up before Mayor Callow at about seven o'clock, Wm. D. Moore, Esq., as counsel for the prosecution, and Mr. Johnson for the defendant.

The defendant made a statement, occupying fully an hour in which he claimed that he set forth all he knew concerning the stolen glass. His statement was very rambling, and sometimes rather confused. It was in substance about as follows:

Shaw said that at the time the object glass was stolen from the Observatory he was keeping a saloon in Allegheny, known as the Arlington House, and here he first became acquainted with Donaldson and Gordon Johnson, who were introduced to him by Matthews. He became acquainted with Campbell by purchasing cigars from him for his saloon. He had not known these parties long before he found that neither Donaldson nor Johnson had any visatle means of support. One day while these two men were in the sitting room at the rear of the saloon he overheard them talking of something very valuable, though he did not hear them name the object. As he knew of the theft of the object glass he at once supposed this must be the subject of their conversation. A few days after that, Donaldson, while intoxicated, told Shaw that he would "Soon get square with Johnston." This, Shaw says, confirmed his suspicions that they possessed the stolen glass; he accordingly informed Chief Irwin of his suspicions.

A short time after this occurred Shaw sold out his saloon in Allegheny and moved to Temperanceville, Thirty-sixth ward, Pittsburgh. While doing some work in Manchester Donaldson visited his house in Temperanceville, carrying a large package under his arms. He enquired for Shaw, and when his wife told him that he was away Donaldson left word for Shaw that he had been there. He then left the house but shortly returned without the package. When Shaw heard this from his wife he at once supposed that Donaldson had brought the glass there and hid it on the premises. He instituted a search but without success.

About this time the road running past Shaw's yard had been graded, leaving it several inches above the level of the yard. Mr. Jones, the owner of the property, informed Shaw that the yard would have to be fixed to prevent the flow of water from the street. The day after Mr. Jones had been working at the yard Shaw heard that he had found something valuable, and soon ascertained that it was the stolen glass. Shaw accordingly informed Chief Irwin of this and the glass was recovered.

After the statement Shaw was released on fifteen hundred dollars bail, for a further hearing on next Wednesday evening. At that time Chief Irwin, Matthews and Campbell will be summoned as witness, and some definate developements in this mysterious case may be expected.

A Hint.

The grand secret of dressing well is not in a lavish expenditure of money on "loud" fabrics, but in the choice of good material, stylish make-up and neat, not gaudy, in color. This is the great aim which is kept constantly in view at Hespenhide & Co.'s No. 50 Sixth street; the popular merchant tailoring establishment at which no reasonable patron ever fails to receive satisfaction. The house has long enjoyed a reputation for the high character of its goods for appearance and durability, and it has never been in a better condition than now to supply all patron's wants.

CORRESPONDENCE.

BROWNSVILLE.

The Churches—Serious Accident—Sudden Death—Rev. J. Knox—The Epizootic.

[Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

BROWNSVILLE, November 14, 1872.

M. E. CHURCH.

On Sunday morning November 10, Rev. H. J. Smith, pastor of the Bridgeport M. E. Church, preached to a large and appreciative audience on the subject of the Resurrection. It was a very able effort and reflects great credit upon the young minister delivering it. In the evening his subject was "God's Dealings with the Jews." His discourse on this occasion evidenced deep historical study and fine rhetorical ability.

C. P. CHURCH.

Rev. Howard officiated morning and evening in the Cumberland Presbyterian Church Bridgeport.

ST. JOHN'S CHURCH.

Rev. Dr. Page, of Pittsburgh, held services in the St. John's Episcopal Church, West Brownsville, administering the solemn and impressive sacrament of Baptism. The congregations were large.

SERIOUS ACCIDENT.

Some days since Wm. Reynolds, Esq., was seriously injured by being thrown from a dray. His wounds, though very painful, are not considered dangerous. Mr. Reynolds is a large, corpulent man and his sufferings are very severe.

DEATH OF AN ESTIMABLE LADY.

Mrs. E. Lines, of Brownsville, died very suddenly last Tuesday from an attack of apoplexy. Mrs. Lines had been in the enjoyment of her usual health until within a short time of her death. Her sudden death will be deeply regretted by a large number of friends and acquaintances. Mrs. Lines was in the sixty-third year of her age.

REV. J. KNOX.

The death of Rev. J. Knox is received with deep and sincere sorrow by his friends here. He was respected by all the religious denominations.

THE EPIZOOTIC.

The epizootic is approaching and the owners of equine property are taking every precaution to prevent an attack. Already we are suffering the inconveniences to business caused by the fearful epidemic.

A PERSONAL EXPLANATION.

In your issue of the 13th inst. is an article from Brownsville over the signature of "Kappia," publishing an item called a "Sensation at Bridgeport," &c. Some persons are crediting this to the regular correspondent "R," and I wish to ask you for space to refute this. We do not know who this "Kappia" is, but we can assure your readers and the family that it was not "R." We are not given to heralding to the world the misfortunes and family difficulties of others. Much rather would we throw over them the broad mantle of charity, and let all the gossipping world remain in ignorance. We claim this space in justice to ourselves and a wounded household. We would advise Mr. "Kappia" to keep his pen off our citizens and save his credit.

R.

[We desire to state, in justice to our regular correspondent, "R," that he was not the author of the item referred to above. It was received from another source, bearing what we judge to be a responsible name. Of course the signature printed was fictitious. About the facts of the case, however, we know nothing, except those stated by our correspondent.—EDS.]

WASHINGTON.

The Horse Disease—Willett's Lecture.

[Special Correspondence of the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

WASHINGTON, PA., Nov. 14, 1872.

APPEARANCE OF THE HORSE DISEASE.

The dread horse disease has at last made its appearance in our town. A few isolated cases were reported some days ago and it was hoped that by care it would extend no further, and that we would be spared a general attack. But it is here making general havoc. It has invaded the livery stables of the Ross Brothers, Roger, Saxton, Long and Morrow. A horse cannot be hired at either of these places. Our express wagons and hacks are still running but it is hard to tell how long they will be able to hold out. Dr. Kent, veterinary surgeon of this place, reports sixty-three cases in the surrounding country.

"THE MODEL WIFE."

Dr. A. A. Willett delivered his excellent lecture "Model Wife," last night in the Town Hall, to a large, intelligent and fashionable audience. The lecture was well received. This was the first of a series of lectures to be delivered during the winter, under the auspices of the Young Men's Christian Association. Gen. J. R. Hawley will be here in December.

X.

A LIVELY discussion is going on in the Baptist denomination, arising from the act of Dr. Penticost, of Broklyn, a baptizing one who was not a communicant of the Baptist Church. The discussion is remarkable in some respects, as it is chiefly inside the lines of the church, instead of outsider, who have sympathized with Mr. Penticost. The question of open communion has many able exponents in that body, while there are others equally as prominent, who take a narrower view of the subject. However much the religious press of other denominations have favored Mr. Penticost, the question is likely to reach a quicker solution, by the discussion now so warm among the Baptist divines, and the respective church organs.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

In the name and by the authority of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, John W. Geary, Governor.

THANKSGIVING PROCLAMATION.

Believing in the Lord our covenant God, in whom our fathers trusted, and in His controlling Providence over the affairs of men and nations, a public acknowledgement of His goodness, and of our constant dependence upon Him, is eminently becoming an enlightened and civilized people:

Now, therefore, impressed with these sentiments, in pursuance of a revered custom, and in conformity with the Proclamation of Ulysses S. Grant, President of the United States, recommending that

THURSDAY, THE 28TH DAY OF NOVEMBER NEXT BE SET APART AS A DAY OF PRAISE, PRAYER AND THANKSGIVING,

I John W. Geary, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do most respectfully request the citizens of this State to observe that day as such, with all due respect and solemnity.

Let thanks be given to Almighty God that He has bestowed upon us all the common blessings of life, given us health, and relieved us from pestilence; that labor is abundantly rewarded; that we have no dread of impending famine, or fear of industrial or commercial distress; that the arts, sciences, general education, and the sentiments of peace and good will are steadily advancing. Let us be especially thankful for the great privileges of American citizenship; for the untrammeled expression of opinion; that our political rights still remain safe under benficent laws, and in the hands of an order loving people, and that "equal and exact justice" is vouchsafed to all. For these and other civil, social and religious blessings we enjoy, let us yield the sincere tribute of grateful hearts, and humbly beseech their continuance.

Given under my Hand and the Great Seal of the State, at Harrisburg, this twenty-eighth day of October, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and seventy-two, and of the Commonwealth the ninety-seventh.

[SEAL] JOHN W. GEARY.
By the Governor:
F. JORDAN,
Secretary of the Commonwealth.

WE have 40 men at work on Wheelbarrows, Hand Carts, Ox Yokes and Store Trucks, at Duquesne Wagon Works, near Soldier's Monument. C. COLEMAN & SON.

Buy nothing but Weed's, if you want a sewing machine which will do your work without any vexation.

WORN TO A SHADOW.

Flesh, muscle and mind alike deteriorate when the stomach falters in its duty and the bowels do not perform their part as scavengers of the system regularly and naturally. In chronic dyspepsia the body is usually emaciated, the muscular fibre loose and flabby, and the brain incapable of prolonged or vigorous exertion. Every organ, every member, even the immortal mind itself, is to a certain extent dependent upon the stomach for support. Strengthen and regulate this feeder of the system with Hostetter's Stomach Bitters, when it fails to perform its functions properly. A good appetite, an increased flow of the gastric juice, and perfect digestion and assimilation will assuredly be the result. The manner in which the great tonic alterative effects a cure of dyspepsia is direct and simple. It stimulates the digestive organs, cleanses without convulsing the bowels; regulates the flow of bile and determines it into the right channels, and exercises a tranquilizing influence over the nerves.
